GPT4 POWERED AIR ELEVATES AITX'S INVESTOR RELATIONS

AITX and its subsidiary, RAD, have successfully launched the first of their three GPT-powered tools, Advanced Investor Relations (AIR).

This platform, powered by GPT-4, is now live on the aitx.ai website. AIR offers personalized and instant responses to investor queries, enhancing transparency and engagement. CEO Steve Reinharz highlights the potential for unmatched support, responsiveness, and innovation.

AITX remains committed to leveraging AI technology and anticipates the full deployment of Sales and Prospect Aid (SPA) and Technical Troubleshooting and Support (TTS) by the end of June 2023, further solidifying their market position in AI-driven solutions.

"...a valuable and helpful tool for investors, followers and all interested parties, looking for reliable data on AITX" ~ Steve

MICROSOFT'S A.I. SHOWS HUMAN-LIKE REASONING

Microsoft's new A.I. system demonstrates human-like reasoning, according to a provocative paper from the company. The system's ability to solve puzzles and provide intuitive answers has sparked debate about the development of artificial general intelligence (A.G.I.). Critics question the claims, emphasizing the need for further evaluation and caution. Microsoft's research highlights the potential and risks of creating machines with human-like intelligence.

RADDog Robot to Make TV Debut on "Stars on Mars" Series

We are thrilled to announce that our RADDog robot will appear on the TV series "Stars on Mars," premiering on FOX on June 5th. RADDog 2S units will serve as security robots and companions to the crew, showcasing our AI-driven technology.

Filming takes place in Coober Pedy, Australia, where RADDog has impressed the production team. No fees were paid for its appearance. RAD plans to release RADDog 2S in the coming months, providing more details in June. This debut is expected to strengthen our position as a leader in AI-driven security solutions.

Join us in watching "Stars on Mars" and celebrating this milestone. Stay tuned for updates from AITX/RAD.
